Abstract	xxii
1. Introduction	1
A Brief Introduction to the Middle Preclassic in the Maya Lowlands	1
Cahal Pech, Where We Lay Our Scene.....	1
Methodological Framework.....	2
Structure of this Monograph	3
Objectives of this Research.....	4
2. The Culture History of Preclassic Mesoamerican and History of Research at Cahal Pech	5
Introduction.....	5
Antecedents: Preceramic Mesoamerica and the Early Preclassic.....	5
Paleoindian and Archaic.....	5
The Early Formative outside the Maya Lowlands:
2000 – 900 B.C.	6
The transition to the Middle Formative/Preclassic in Mesoamerica: 1100 – 900 B.C.	9
The Middle Formative/Preclassic outside and inside the Maya Lowlands: 900 – 350 B.C.	10
The Middle Formative outside the Maya Lowlands	10
The Maya Lowlands during the Middle Preclassic.....	12
Northern Lowlands.....	14
Rio Pasión Drainage/Southern Petén	14
Eastern/Central Petén and the Mirador Area.....	15
Northern Belize	16
The Belize Valley	17
The Late Preclassic Consequences of Middle Preclassic Development.....	19
Previous Investigations at Cahal Pech	20
Early Investigations: Before 1988.....	20
Excavations After 1988.....	21
Cahal Pech Project: 1988-1991	21
San Diego State University Excavations.....	22
Belize Valley Archaeological Reconnaissance: 1992-present.....	22
Belize Valley Preclassic Maya Project: 1994-1997.....	24
3. Theoretical Approach and Small-World Networks	27
Introduction.....	27
Previous Models: Ecology vs. Agency, Regional vs. Local	27
Ecological Approaches.....	27
Power, Prestige, and Agent-based Approaches	28
Interaction and Exchange in the Middle Preclassic Maya Lowlands	29
What We Know	29
What We Do Not Know and How We Think About Exchange and Interaction	30
Middle Preclassic Social Organization as Nested Interaction Networks.....	31
Households as Networks.....	31
Communities as Networks	32
Regions as Networks.....	32
A Complex Web of Networks	33
A Hypothetical Network Structure: The Small World and its Properties	33
Networks and Social Identity.....	35

Networks and Politics	36
Summary	36
4. Methods and Bridging Arguments	39
Introduction	39
Belize Valley Archaeological Project: 2004-2009	39
Excavation and Recording Methods	39
Excavations in Plaza B	40
Artefact Processing and Preliminary BVAP Analyses	40
Additional Fieldwork and Laboratory Analyses	40
Remapping Plaza B and Creating the Cahal Pech Geodatabase	42
Small Finds Analysis	42
Pottery Analysis	43
Architectural and Contextual Analysis	45
Architectural Analysis	45
Contextual Analysis	45
Resource Zones and Consumption Variability: Conceptualizing Networks	47
Resource Zones	47
Investigating Variability	47
Summary	48
5. The Natural Environment and Resource Zones.....	49
Introduction	49
Modern Political Geography	49
Regional Climate and Weather.....	49
Landscape: Topography, Geology and Resource Zones	50
Coastal and Offshore Zone.....	51
Northern Karst and Plains Zone	52
Southern Karst and Hills	52
Maya Mountains.....	52
Resource Areas outside Belize	54
The Belize Valley Zone: Local Environment and Resources	56
Landforms	56
Geology	56
Hydrology	57
Soils.....	58
Flora and Fauna.....	59
Summary	60
6. The Middle Preclassic Built Environment of Cahal Pech	61
Introduction.....	61
Overburden and Later Plaza Floors	61
Late Preclassic Plaza Floors.....	62
Plaza B Architectural Sequences	64
Operation 1: Plaza B North Sequence.....	64
Phase 0: Bedrock Modification and Soil Occupation Horizon (Cunil or Earlier?).....	64
Phase I: Marl Dwelling and Patio Floors and Cobble Surface (Transitional Cunil-early facet Kanluk)	65
Phase II: Cobble and Marl Platform, Marl Patio Surface (early facet Kanluk)	67
Phase III: Patio Floors and Small Cobble Platforms (early facet Kanluk).....	69
Phase IV: Large Cobble-and-Marl Platforms (early facet Kanluk-Kanluk).....	73
Phase V: Plaster Floor 4 (late facet Kanluk-early facet Xakal).....	77
Operation 1: Plaza B Central Sequence	77
Phase 0: Bedrock Modification and Soil Occupation Horizon (Cunil or Earlier?).....	77
Phase I: Cobble surfaces (Transitional Cunil-early facet Kanluk).....	78
Phase IVb: Cobble feature and Plaster Floor 5 (early facet Kanluk -Kanluk).....	78
Phase V: Floor 4	80
Operations 1 and 7: Plaza B South Sequence	80
Phase 0: Bedrock modification and Occupation Horizon (Cunil or Earlier?).....	82
Phase I: Cobble surfaces, marl floors, and a plaster patch (Transitional Cunil-early facet Kanluk).....	82

Phase II: Soft and hard marl surfaces, raised marl platform (Transition Cunil-early facet Kanluk)	84
Phase III: Cut stone rectangular platform and marl floors (early facet Kanluk)	85
Phase IV: Cut stone rounded platform with plaster floor (early facet Kanluk-Kanluk)	87
Phase V: Plaza Floor 4	88
Operation 3	89
Phase 0: Bedrock Modification and Occupation Horizon	90
Phase I: Low plaster floors (Transitional Cunil-early facet Kanluk)	90
Phase II: Eroded plaster floor (early facet Kanluk)	91
Phase IV: Cut-stone platforms, marl floors, refuse pit (early facet Kanluk – late facet Kanluk)	92
Phase V: Cobble surfaces, plaster floor (late facet Kanluk-early facet Xakal)	93
Operation 4	94
Phase IV: Limestone cobble platform (early facet Kanluk-Kanluk)	94
Phase V: Plaster floor (late facet Kanluk-early facet Xakal)	94
Operation 5	95
Phase I: Stone alignment, carbon stains (Transitional Cunil-early facet Kanluk)	95
Phase II: Marl surfaces (early facet Kanluk)	95
Phase IV: Marl-and-flagstone surface, stone alignment (Kanluk-late facet Kanluk)	95
Phase V: Plaster Floor 4 (late facet Kanluk-early facet Xakal)	97
Summary of Plaza B Architectural Remains and Intrasite Comparisons	97
Issues with Plaza B data comparison	97
Phase 0 – Initial Occupation (Cunil or before)	98
Phase I (Cunil-early facet Kanluk)	98
Phase II (early facet Kanluk)	99
Phase III (early facet Kanluk)	100
Phase IV (early facet Kanluk – Kanluk)	100
Phase V (transitional late facet Kanluk – early facet Xakal)	101
Diachronic Developmental Trends	102
Interpretations and Conclusions	103
7. Objects of Stone	105
Introduction	105
Chipped Stone Artefacts	105
Chert Artefacts	105
Chert Summary	112
Obsidian Artefacts	112
Obsidian Sourcing	113
Obsidian Summary and Comparison	114
Ground, Pecked, and Polished Stone Artefacts	115
Stone Spheroids	116
Spheroid Comparison and Summary	118
Grinding Equipment	120
Grinding Equipment Comparison and Summary	122
Slate Objects	123
Slate Summary	127
Green-coloured stone and Jadeite	127
Green-Coloured Stone Summary	131
Unworked Rocks and Minerals	131
Stone Artefacts Summary	133
8. Bone, Freshwater and Marine Shell Artefacts	135
Introduction	135
Objects of Worked Bone	135
Comparative and Summary Comments	136
Objects of Worked Freshwater Mollusc Shell	137
Comparative and Summary Comments	139
Objects of Marine Shell	140
Taxonomic Identifications and the Distributions of Marine Molluscs	140
Marine Shell Artefacts	142
Marine Shell Ornaments	142

Marine Shell Debris	150
Evidence for the Production of Marine Shell Ornaments	151
Summary and Conclusion	153
9. Fired-Clay Artefacts and Pottery	155
Introduction	155
Modelled-Clay Artefacts	155
Modelled-Clay Ocarinas and Figurines	158
Head Fragments.....	161
Torso Fragments.....	162
Appendage Fragments.....	163
Other Fragments.....	163
Ocarina and Figurine Summary and Discussion	164
Reworked Sherd Artefacts	166
Summary: Modelled-Clay Artefacts and Reworked Sherds	170
Pottery	170
General Assemblage Composition	170
Type-Variety Breakdown of the Assemblage	171
Sherd Assemblage and Vessel Categories	171
Cache Vessels	172
Functional and Stylistic Groups by Phase.....	173
Phase 0/I (Figure 9.9).....	173
Phase II/III (Figure 9.10).....	178
Phase IV (Figures 9.11 and 9.12).....	180
Macroscopic Fabric Characterization	183
Fabric Characterization and Attributes.....	183
Ceramic Fabrics by Phase	193
Pottery Summary.....	199
10. Spatial Analysis of Materials Consumption Patterns	203
Introduction.....	203
Definition of Consumption-Related Contexts/Consumer Groups	203
Phase 0/I.....	203
Phase II/III.....	204
Phase IV	205
Caveat.....	207
Analysis of Materials Consumption and Structure Function by Phase.....	208
Phase 0/I	208
Materials Consumption	208
Structure Function	210
Phase II/III.....	210
Materials Consumption	210
Structure Function	214
Phase IV	214
Materials Consumption	214
Phase IV Consumption Patterns	223
Structure Function	227
Intrasite Patterns, Interactions, and Social Organization – A Summary of Diachronic Change.....	229
Phase 0/I – Cunil and transitional early Kanluk.....	229
Phase II/III – early Kanluk.....	229
Phase IV – transitional early/late Kanluk through late Kanluk.....	230
The Alternative Addressed.....	231
Summary Discussion	232
11. Discussion of the Data from a Network Perspective	233
Small World Networks and Brokers	233
Early Small-World Networks	233
Later Small-World Networks	234
The Position of Cahal Pech in a Series of Middle Preclassic Small Worlds.....	236

Community and Regional Small Worlds.....236
Cahal Pech as a Potential Broker237
Summary238

12. Conclusions.....239
A Summary of Network Interactions and Social Complexity239
Contributions to the Study of Middle Preclassic Maya Society239
Questions and Directions for Future Research240
Some Concluding Thoughts.....240
