

Contents

List of figures	ix
List of tables	xii
Abstract	xiv
Acknowledgements	xv
1. Introduction	1
1.1 Aims and Objectives	1
1.2 Research Context	1
1.3 Research Parameters	3
1.3.1 Geology and Topography	3
1.3.2 Chronology	4
1.4 The Data	5
1.4.1 The Database Structure	5
1.4.2 Interrogation of the Dataset and GIS Mapping	6
1.5 Structure	6
2. The Dumnonii	7
2.1 The Late Iron Age	7
2.1.1 Late Iron Age Settlement Pattern	7
2.1.1.1 Promontory Forts	7
2.1.1.2 Hillforts	8
2.1.1.3 Multiple Enclosure Forts	8
2.1.1.4 Rounds and Hillslope Enclosures	9
2.1.1.5 Unenclosed Settlements	9
2.1.2 Material Culture	9
2.1.3 Trade	11
2.1.4 Religion and Ritual	12
2.1.5 Political and Social Structure	13
2.2 The Roman Period	13
2.2.1 Settlement Pattern	15
2.2.1.1 Rural Settlements	15
2.2.1.2 Villa Landscape	15
2.2.1.3 Roadside Settlements	16
2.2.1.4 Towns	17
2.2.2 Administration	17
2.2.3 Manufacture and Trade	18
2.2.4 Religion and Ritual	18
2.3 Towards a New Perspective	20
3. Material Culture and Identity	23
3.1 Theorising Roman Studies	23
3.2 Identity	24
3.3 Material Culture	25
3.4 Theoretical Perspectives	26
4. The Ceramic Assemblage	27
4.1 Methodology	28
4.2 The Social Life of Clay	30
4.2.1 Case Study 1: Regional and Local Identities: the use of gabbroic clay within Cornwall	30
4.2.2 Case Study 2: Brilliant Vessels: the use of mica rich clays in Devon	34
4.2.3 Conclusion	37
4.3 Regional Overview	37
4.3.1 The Rural Settlements	38
4.3.1.1 The Middle and Late Iron Age Period	38

4.3.1.2 The Romano-British Period.....	41
4.3.2 Exeter.....	48
4.3.3 Conclusion.....	55
4.4 Change Through Time.....	56
4.4.1 The Middle and Late Iron Ages, CP1 and CP2.....	57
4.4.2 The Late Iron Age to Roman Transition period, CP3.....	59
4.4.3 The Early to Mid Romano-British period, CP4.....	59
4.4.4 The Mid to Late Romano-British period, CP5.....	64
4.4.5 The Late Romano-British period to Post Roman period, CP6.....	71
4.5 Discussion.....	74
5. Personal Adornment Items.....	79
5.1 Methodology.....	80
5.2 Biographical Objects.....	81
5.2.1 Case Study 1: Identity, Power and Memory: Decorated Brooches in Roman Cornwall.....	82
5.2.2 Personal Adornment Items as Votives and the Shrine at Nornour.....	85
5.2.3 Conclusion.....	86
5.3 Regional Overview.....	87
5.3.1 Exeter.....	87
5.3.2 The Rural Settlements.....	89
5.3.3 Personal Adornment in the Wider Region.....	93
5.3.4 Conclusion.....	95
5.4 Change Through Time.....	95
5.4.1 The Late Iron Age, CP2.....	96
5.4.2 The Late Iron Age to Roman Transition period, CP3.....	96
5.4.3 The Early to Mid Romano-British period, CP4.....	98
5.4.4 The Mid to Late Romano-British period, CP5.....	103
5.4.5 The Late Romano-British period to Post Roman period, CP6.....	107
5.5 Discussion.....	110
6. Coinage in the South-West.....	113
6.1 Methodology.....	117
6.1.1 Single and Settlement Finds.....	117
6.1.1.1 Nature of the Evidence.....	117
6.1.1.2 Methodology.....	117
6.1.2 Hoards.....	118
6.1.2.1 Nature of the Evidence.....	118
6.1.2.2 Hoard Methodology.....	119
6.2 Regional Overview.....	119
6.3 Change Through Time.....	126
6.3.1 The Iron Age.....	126
6.3.2 The Early Period.....	126
6.3.2.1 The Republican to Flavian Period.....	129
6.3.2.2 The Flavian to Mid Second Century Period.....	132
6.3.2.3 The Mid Second Century to Caracalla.....	137
6.3.2.4 The Final Years of the Early Period.....	137
6.3.3 The Radiate Period.....	143
6.3.4 The Late Period.....	145
6.4 Discussion.....	152
7. Narratives of Change in the South-West Peninsula.....	155
7.1 People, Material, and Identity in the South-West.....	155
7.1.2 Memory and Identity in the South-West.....	158
7.2 The Dumnonii: A New Perspective for the South-West.....	159
Appendix 1. The Sites.....	161
1.1 Introduction.....	161
1.2 Notes on the Sites.....	161
1.3 Map of the Sites.....	162
1.4 Gazetteer.....	163
Bibliography.....	197