

Contents

List of Figures.....	ix
List of Tables.....	xii
Introduction.....	1
Methodology and Research Themes	3
Outline of Chapters	4
1. Nineteenth-Century Archaeology in Iceland and Canada: Culture Contact, Capitalism, and Improvement.....	7
1.1. Research into the Icelandic Emigration to Canada	7
The grand narrative.....	7
Previous archaeological research.....	8
1.2. Historical Archaeology on the Canadian Prairie and Iceland	9
1.3. Culture Contact and Ethnic Identity	9
1.4. Modern Ideologies of Capitalism and Improvement	10
Conclusion	11
2. Modern Changes and the Continuity of Tradition	13
2.1. Modern Changes	13
Modern changes are not inherently forward and progressive.....	14
Modern changes are not totalising or complete	15
Modern changes do not rise from a rupture but from continuity.....	16
2.2. Continuity of Traditions.....	16
Tradition is not repetition.....	16
Traditions as skills	17
Conclusion	18
3. From Iceland to New Iceland: The Households of Hornbrekka and Víðivellir	19
3.1. Emigrating from Iceland: The Households of Hornbrekka	19
3.2. Settling in New Iceland: The Guttormssons of Víðivellir	24
Conclusion	30
4. Becoming Canadian: Culture Contact.....	31
4.1. Icelandic Nationalism and the Racial Discourse in Canada	31
4.2. Culture Contact in New Iceland.....	34
4.3. Becoming Icelandic, Becoming Canadian: The Case of the Jigger.....	39
Conclusion	41
5. Becoming Wealthy: From Self-sufficiency to Capitalism	43
5.1. Consumption and Production at Hornbrekka and Víðivellir	44
The fishermen-farmers at Hornbrekka	44
The farmers and wage labourers at Víðivellir.....	52
5.2. Continuity Through Change: Trans-Atlantic Connections	61
Sheep farming in New Iceland.....	62
Fishing and the introduction of icehouses in New and Old Iceland	65
Conclusion	68
6. Becoming Refined: Domestic Improvements.....	69
6.1. Nineteenth-Century Domesticity in Iceland and Women's Aspirations to Emigrate	70
6.2. Improved Homes in Old and New Iceland	72
Serving food and refined dining.....	72
Doing the housework at Hornbrekka	74
Doing the housework at Víðivellir.....	77
Conclusion	79

7. Becoming Modern: Building Homes and Buying Houses	81
7.1. Icelandic Turf Houses	82
Late 19th- and 20th-century improvements	85
The Hornbrekka farmhouse	90
7.2. The Houses of New Iceland	98
Viðivellir	105
Conclusion: Houses of Turf and Timber, Built and Bought	111
Conclusion	113
The Becomings	113
Bibliography	117